

The 2014 winter season start date

The rainy season of Upper Thailand has ended and the winter season of the Upper Thailand has already started on 14 October 2014. As the lower-level winds have altered to be from the eastern and northeastern directions while the upper-level winds have changed to be from the western direction. Thus, the rainfall in the Upper Thailand has reduced. Moreover, the temperatures in the northern and northeastern parts have lowered to be cool continuously, whereas those in the central and eastern parts are cool further.

Still, the rainfall in the southern parts from Prachuap Khirikhan province downward occurs usually until December.
